terday-one the body of a person dying of cholera. SICKNESS ON THE RIVER, &c.-The Louisville Courier of the Sth says: We learn that among the deck passengers, emigrants chiefly, from New Orleans, a great deal of sickness prevails, particularly on the hoats bound for St. Louis. The disease is a species of ship fever and cholera combined, which is very fatal. In St. Louis there is also a great deal of fatal sickness prevailing.

On the Lexington that arrived from New Orleans yesterday, there were many emigrant passengers, among whom much sickness prevailed, and nine of them died during the trip. Among the deaths were a family of Swiss, the parents and three children, leaving one little child, which was sent to an orphan asylum.

At Hickman and other points on the Mississippi, there is said to be much sickness prevailing, though not very fatal.

The sickness on the river thus far is confined to emigrants who have the seeds of disease in their systems on their arrival at New Orleans, and are generally shipped off up the river in droves at cheap rates and are crowded together like sheep.

Within the past month Dan Rice has cleared in Mississippi by his circus $13,000. Of this sum he left $1,000 in Jackson as a bet that FILLMORE would be the next President.

So says an exchange. We fancy that "DAN" is destined to realise the truth of the adage: "A fool and his money are seen parted."

FINE YIELD.-Mr. A. Cofurn, of Ontonagon, Mich, in a letter to J. C. Holmes, of this city, says that he raised, last year, on 16 acres of land, at Ontonagon, 2,500 bushels of potatoes, worth $2,-500, and 16 tons of eats in sheaf, and hay, worth $400; making the total value of products of the 16 acres $2,900. The expenses of raising the cropdid not exceed $500.

A BAYOU SARA VERDICT .- The slave, Dick, says the Bayou Sara (La.) Ledger, was tried for arson on Wednesday last. The verdict of the jury amounted to this: " Not guilty, but there are strong circumstances going to show that he had a hand in it." This sounds a good deal like the Irish verdict, "Guilty, with some doubts as to whether he is the Prussia, have finally fully united on the Eastern question, and against the Czar. McHenry says Flour has declined fully 3s, and quotes Ohio 39a40x. Wheat declined a 6d, and protes white 12s 3da12s 6d.

Cheatham's Mowing and Reapin: Machines, we have tried it in Clover and grain blown down and tangled, and I state that it moves and cuts cleaner than the seytheblade, and will mow per day as much as 14 hands and it can the at least 24 acres per day.
